Index to Volume 14, Numbers 1–4, pp 1–480

SUBJECT INDEX

Applying to the WOM to WOMBAT: evaluation of a tool to support learning about design evaluation, 228

Architectural design tools: simulation, communication and negotiation, 299

Case studies as a biological research process, 357

Case studies of creativity in innovative product development, 423

Case study methods in design management research, 444

Computer vision in architectural design, 40

Computer-aided design of polyhedral building structures, 19

Design as problem-solving? or: here is the solution – what was the problem, 157

Design decisions and uncertainty, 85

Designing at a distance via real-time designer-to-designer interaction, 261

Environmental factors in products: how to gather the evidence, 457

Expanding design spaces through new design variables, 210

Inaugurative learning: adapting a new design approach, 379

Investigating British and European retail buyer attitudes and perceptions of British design, 194

It's all in a relationship: a comparative study of client – design consultant relationships, 402

Narratives as tools for the system designer, 283

On computational models for drafting and design, 124

On the pattern of reasoning in innovative design, 4

Representing design knowledge as a network of function, behaviour and structure, 314

Rescuing CAD from rationalism, 100

Technology capability: a problematic concept, 330

The commercial impacts of investment in design, 171

The design of user interfaces for intelligent layout generation systems, 247

The effects of examples on the use of knowledge in a student design activity: the case of the 'flying Dutchman', 58

The impact of competitive structure and technological environment on design management: a case study of the UK touring caravan industry, 365

The use of sensitivity analysis for design problems, 75
